TEL: (734)647-9610 / FAX: (734)763-0335 / EMAIL: chinadata@umich.edu

Please join the following workshop organized by China Data Center:
“Recent Development and New Features of China Data Online”

Time: 3:00pm - 5:30pm, Thursday, March 22, 2018

Site: Roosevelt 3, Marriott Wardman Park Hotel, Washington, D.C.

New Data and Features of China Data Online

The following new databases have been added to China Statistics Database and Census Database:

Statistical Datasheets provides about 270,000 statistical tables from all provincial yearbooks and some other sources with full text search function and metadata, including citation information and unique table ID for direct access.

Census Maps covers more than 7 million census maps with data by province, city, county or even township, including population census 2000 and 2010, economic census 2004 and 2008, basic unit census 2001, and industrial census 1995.

Statistical Charts provides a rich collection of statistical charts for those monthly and yearly statistics at country, province, prefecture city and county levels with full text search function and metadata, including citation information and unique chart ID for direct access.

New Features of China Geo-Explorer and US Geo-Explorer:

Chinese Version of “China Map Library” is part of China Geo-Explorer. It offers about 8 million maps for the demographic and business data of China. Those maps provide comprehensive information of China at province, prefecture cities, county, and township levels. It is available now in both Chinese and English.

Chinese Version of “US Map Library” is part of US Geo-Explorer. It offers about 200 million maps for the demographic and business data of US. Those maps provide comprehensive information of US at state, metropolitan, county, county division, place, tract, and block levels. It is available now in both Chinese and English.

Annual Conference Program, Volume 69.

The Annual Conference Program is published annually by the Association for Asian Studies, Inc.
It is printed in February and distributed to all conference attendees.

Temple mural depicting scenes of village life at Wat Baan Pang, the home temple of northern Thailand's most famous Buddhist monk, Kruba Srivichai (1878-1939). The mural is located in Kruba Srivichai's reliquary pavilion at Wat Baan Pang, in Lii District of Lamphun Province. Kruba Srivichai was known for his many development projects, which included the construction or restoration of over 100 northern temples. Controversial in his lifetime, he was detained under temple arrest numerous times and summoned for investigation in the capital city of Bangkok in 1920 and 1935. He remains an important symbol in the lives of northern Thais, many keeping his images and amulets on their persons or in their homes, cars and temples.

The right side of the mural shows villagers making offerings to Kruba Srivichai during an annual festival. He is shown holding a palmleaf fan and seated at the head of the staircase leading from the village up the hillside (note the musicians to the left of the temple, the drum procession at the foot of the staircase, and the tiger representing Kruba Srivichai's birthyear). The left side depicts a birth scene in a village home (lower left), a festive novice ordination (upper left), and a wandering monk (center); each of these scenes parallel important moments in Kruba Srivichai's village life. In the background are the surrounding mountains, forests and paddyfields. Painted circa late 1990s, the anonymous artist dedicated his mural to the Buddha, Dharma, Sangha, parents, teachers and deities.

Beyond the Academy: Public Policy Careers for Asianists

Day/Time: Friday, March 23, 3:00pm-5:00pm

Room: Thurgood Marshall South, Mezzanine Level

Despite the context of drastic funding cuts where US resources for education and cultural exchanges are affecting America's knowledge of and interest in Asian studies, Asia continues to attract a large number of students every year. Yet the pursuit of an academic career in the field of Asian studies is becoming more challenging as the demand for teaching jobs far exceeds the number of tenure-track positions available. As a result, an increasing number of students are considering career options outside academia. This 2018 'Beyond the Academy' roundtable brings together five professionals in the field of public policy in Washington DC to provide students and recent graduates with practical advice on how their academic training prepared them for their career in the US Department of State Foreign Service, think tank and non-for-profit sectors. Drawing on their personal experience, the panelists will discuss which skills they find are best suited for non-academic jobs, how to best approach a career outside the academy and how to capitalize on the training, skills and knowledge gained in the course of post-graduate studies.

This session is open to all conference attendees.

Graduate Student Reception

Day/Time: Thursday, March 22, 9:30pm – 11:00pm

Room: Thurgood Marshall West, Mezzanine Level

Join us as we welcome all graduate students to the conference with this annual evening reception. Graduate Student paper prize winners from the 2017 Annual Conference will be on display with welcoming remarks from AAS President, Katherine Bowie. Complimentary drinks and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

Graduate Student Travel Stipends

Graduate students presenting on official panel sessions, registered by posted deadline of December 1, 2017 and living 100 miles or more away from the Conference location will receive a graduate student stipend of approximately $200. You may pick up your stipend at the AAS registration counters located on the lobby level in the Marriott. ID is required; distribution hours coincide with regular registration counters hours – Thursday through Sunday. Amount may vary depending on number of registered students.

2018 Graduate Student Paper Prizes

The Area Councils of the AAS are offering prizes for the "Best Graduate Student Paper" presented during the 2017 Annual Conference.

For more details on these paper prizes and how to apply, please visit the CIAC, NEAC, SAC, or SEAC Council pages on the AAS home page. Submission deadline is Sunday, March 25th. Hard copies of application materials on-site in Washington, D.C. will not be accepted.

Generation, Reconnection, and Reciprocity: Hopes for a United Front of Youth Precariat in East Asia

We are now living in the “New Normal” when everything is calculated to the benefit of capital and capital’s values always override human dignity. Since no one any longer expects tomorrow will be better, life is filled with endless fears that things will only get worse and daily joys are replaced by insecurity and anxiety. Post-growth syndromes are manifest in so many societies today and only differ in the timing of their onset. Youth in their jobless and relationless condition have begun to raise their voices but with little success. When young people begin to dwell upon the question of surviving rather than that of living, where are we going and what are we up to? In this talk, I will scrutinize the lives of young people living in the East Asian region, and South Korea in particular, who live through the turmoil of compressed modernization led by authoritarian states with hyper-competitive educational systems and on-going familism. I ask the question: Can we still talk about hope?

Biography: Cho (Han) Haejoang is a cultural anthropologist and a leading South Korean public intellectual. She is Professor Emeritus of Yonsei University, living in Seoul.

Author of 12 books and numerous papers, co-founder of Another Culture in 1984, one of South Korea’s most important feminist groups and publishing houses; founder of Haja Center in 1999, South Korea’s first alternative cultural space for teens, Cho has been on the vanguard of feminist challenges to South Korea’s cultural, education, and family lives. An insider ethnographer, Cho has attentively illuminated the changing landscape of contemporary South Korea. Her voice has been a brave and bold. Whether arguing that South Korea’s first blockbuster film was anything but a uniquely “Korean” cultural product, or asserting that the so-called Korean Wave had best be appreciated as an embodiment of the West commercialism penetrating Korean bodies, Cho’s writings have challenged not only cultural norms and the status quo, but even the prevailing voice of progressive academic community as well. Little is sacred in her keen social observations in her whirlwind tour of the recent history of South Korea where one of the world’s most dizzying compressed development epics has unfurled. Cho’s is a voice from the trenches of lives in a post-colonial, post-Cold War, and post-industrial era. The transnational coordinates of Cho’s own career, from the height of Western-centered cosmopolitanism as herself an American Ph.D., to the burgeoning of a Pan-Asian cultural era in which she decided to never pen in English again, once again make Cho’s a life and voice that not only reveals but literally charts history.

Major Publications: Women and Men in South Korea (1988); Reading Texts, Reading Lives in the Postcolonial Era in 3 volumes (1992, 1994); Children Refusing School, Society Refusing Children (1996); Reflexive Modernity and Feminism (1998); Children Searching for School, Society Searching for Children (2000); Talking at the Edge: Letters Between Japanese and Korean Feminists (2004, coauthored with Ueno Chizuko); It’s Life-Learning Village Again (2006), and Back to the Classroom: Reading Text and Reading Everyday Lives in Neo-liberal Era (2009, coauthored) and Betrayal of Effort (2016, coauthored 2016). The previous are all in the Korean language. Two books have been translated into Japanese: Korean Society and Gender (Hose University Press) and Can the Words Reach? (Iwanami Publishers coauthored with Ueno).

Panel sessions will commence following the keynote address.

Palimpsests of the Past: Oral History and the Art of Pointillism

Between Jawaharlal Nehru's 1946 description of India as "an ancient palimpsest on which layer upon layer of thought and reverie had been inscribed" and Mao Zedong's 1957 vision of China as a "blank sheet of paper" on which "the most beautiful pictures can be painted" lie intriguing differences in political historiography. The mural on this year's AAS program cover depicts happy scenes paralleling moments in the life of Kruba Srivichai (1878-1939), the most famous monk of northern Thailand. However, this mural also illustrates processes of historiographical erasure, ignoring his temple arrests, his investigations in the capital city of Bangkok in 1920 and 1935, the mass disrobings of over 400 of his disciples, and other key events in his life in order to create a more joyous biography which facilitates a narrative of national harmony. As elsewhere across Asia, Thai archival records typically consist of accounts by native elites or foreign residents. The historical realities of the lives of Kruba Srivichai and other villagers are fading. Although once met with skepticism, scholars are increasingly realizing that oral histories can enable a more fulsome, more democratic understanding of the past. As a historical anthropologist, my research combines archival sources with hundreds of oral histories. Each of the oral histories, much like the individual dots which comprise a pointillist painting, combine to enrich palimpsests of the past. In this keynote, I will reflect on the interplay of archival accounts and oral histories, noting how oral histories can lead to reanalyses of hegemonic historiographical paradigms.

What the West Needs to Hear from Asia

Friday, March 23, 10:30am – 12:30pm
Washington Room 3, Exhibit Level

Asian studies broadly defined has its roots in colonial studies. It has since evolved to become a vehicle for all disciplines alone and in dialogue with each other as a method for both Western and non-Western scholars to understand Asia. A significant contribution has been for Asians to better understand their countries as part of the modernization process to study their own countries in universities in the West. However, while Western methods and theories continue to dominate scholarly exercise and discourse, there is as yet little evidence that the direction of learning can reverse its way. This is partly due to the Asians' own failure to come up, for instance, with an international relations theory that explains East Asian international politics. More broadly speaking, it is also due to the difficulty in placing Asia and Asian scholars in the West's intellectual community. This roundtable seeks to highlight some of these issues with the participation of people from academia and the think-tank community.

PANELISTS INCLUDE: Haruko Satoh (Moderator), Professor, Osaka School of International Public Policy; Joseph Haldane, Chief Executive Officer, IAFOR Research Center at the Osaka School of International Public Policy; Sheila Smith, Senior Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations; ; Peng Er Lam, Senior Research Fellow, National University of Singapore

The Rohingya Question

Friday, March 23, 12:45pm – 2:45pm
Marriott Ballroom, Salon 3, Exhibit Level

Since the 25th of August 2017, more than half a million Rohingya refugees have fled Myanmar to Bangladesh to escape actions various international leaders and bodies are describing as a state-sanctioned "ethnic cleansing" drive and has been called by some a "genocide" in the making. This special AAS panel will bring together a group of experts with backgrounds in the fields of history, anthropology, law and journalism to critically discuss the genesis and construction of Rohingya ethnic claims, and to examine whether the Rohingya are currently subject to deliberate killings in Rakhine State and assess the general human rights situation in that part of Myanmar.

PANELISTS INCLUDE: Matrii Aung Thwin (Moderator), Associate Professor, National University of Singapore; David Steinberg, Professor, Georgetown University; Magnus Fiskesjö, Associate Professor, Cornell University; Francis Wade, Freelance Journalist; Jacques Leider, Professor, École française d'Extrême-Orient; Tharaphi Than, Professor, Northern Illinois University

New Kinds of Censorship Pressures

Saturday, March 24, 8:30am – 10:30am
Marriott Ballroom, Salon 3, Exhibit Level

This special panel is designed to respond to a specific recent issue of great concern to the AAS membership, due to its implications for the Journal of Asian Studies: recent moves to limit the circulation of scholarly work on the Chinese mainland. While engaging with this subject, though, this panel will combine it with discussion of related concerns affecting other parts of Asia, such as Thailand and Cambodia. The participants will include the editors of the JAS and China Quarterly, as well as journalists and others who have been on the frontlines of censorship and free speech struggles in places other than the PRC.

PANELIST INCLUDE: Jeff Wasserstrom (Moderator), Professor, UC Irvine; Tim Pringle, Professor, School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London; Pavin Chachavalpongpun, Associate Professor, Kyoto University; Rebecca MacKinnon, Director, Ranking Rights Program, New American Foundation

Asian Arts and Resistance: Defiant Subjects and their Disobedient Objects

Saturday, March 24, 10:45am – 12:45pm
Washington Room 3, Exhibit Level

All across Asia artists, writers, musicians, dramatists, and architects have used their expressive capacities, and now increasingly new media - to critique the status quo, political regimes, and social establishments. At the same time, states and other powerful patrons regularly use and support expressive forms to celebrate and legitimate their own authority. Scholars in numerous disciplines, time periods, and areas of Asia are currently examining these complex relationships between artistic expression and political power. This panel brings together artists from Hong Kong, Myanmar, Cambodia, and India, who through urban space installations, photographs, sculptures, and films have created unique, discursive and imaginative spaces where art collapses into political discourses. This panel on the multiple and simultaneous uses of art as personal expression, political analysis, and social critique will provide a unique venue for the exploration of these relationships today.

PANELIST INCLUDE: Laurel Kendall (Moderator), American Museum of National History; Svay Sareth; Minzayar Oo, Panos Pictures; Sampson Wong, Hong Kong Academy for Performing Arts; Sarvnik Kaur and Tushar Madhav

PHOTO EXHIBIT

Kabul to Kolkata: Of Belonging, Memories and Identity

Please join us in the Exhibit Hall B South (adjacent to the Book Exhibits) Friday, March 23 and Saturday March 24 from 9am-5pm.

This photographic exhibit documents processes of social change among the Afghan community in Kolkata made famous by Rabindranath Tagore's 1892 Bengali short story Kabuliwala.

The exhibit concerns a specific intra-Asian connection between Afghans and Bengalis that highlights larger historical patterns of trans-Asian migration, cultural resilience and transformation, and shifting senses of self, community and home.

This is the first photographic exhibit dedicated to the Kolkata Afghans that have been etched into popular imaginaries of British India by translations, performances and the enduring appeal of Tagore's Kabuliwala for 125 years.

The Kabul to Kolkata Photographic Exhibit is made possible by the generous support of the South Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies, the American Institute of Afghanistan Studies, the American Institute of Indian Studies, the University of Sussex Asia Centre, the Council of American Overseas Research Centers, and the India Collaborative at Center for Global Engagement

ASIA SHORTS

MEET THE EDITOR / DISCUSS YOUR PROPOSAL

Visit the AAS Publications booth (#119) at 9:00 am on Saturday, March 24 to talk with "ASIA SHORTS" editor, Bill Tsutsui, or contact Bill at tsutsui@hendrix.edu.

DRINKING BOMB & SHOOTING METH

Alcohol and Drug Use in Japan

Jeffrey W. Alexander

"A masterful analysis of modern Japanese alcohol and drug culture ... a must-read scholarly study, with details alternately humorous and horrific."

— Norman Smith, University of Guelph and author, Intoxicating Manchuria

AVAILABLE NOW FROM AAS
www.asian-studies.org

"ASIA SHORTS" offers concise, engagingly-written titles written by highly-qualified authors on topics of significance in Asian studies. Topics are intended to be substantive, generate discussion and debate within the field, and attract interest beyond it.

The AAS is exploring new ways of making rigorous, timely, and accessible work by scholars in the field available to a wide audience of informed readers. This new series complements and leverages the success of the pedagogically-oriented AAS series, "Key Issues in Asian Studies" and is designed to engage broad audiences with up-to-date scholarship on important topics in Asian studies.

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

We are looking for authors for "ASIA SHORTS" volumes. For further information, visit the AAS publications booth (#119) at 9:00 am on Saturday, March 24 to talk with "ASIA SHORTS" editor, Bill Tsutsui, or consult the "ASIA SHORTS" author guidelines on the AAS website at: www.asian-studies.org/Publications/ASIA-Shorts.

ASIAN STUDIES JOURNALS

FROM
PRESS

VISIT US AT
BOOTH #212

ASIAN PERSPECTIVES: THE JOURNAL OF ARCHAEOLOGY FOR ASIA AND THE PACIFIC is an archaeological journal devoted to the prehistory of Asia and the Pacific region. In addition it features articles and book reviews on ethnoarchaeology, palaeoanthropology, physical anthropology, and ethnography of interest and use to the prehistorian.

ASIAN THEATRE JOURNAL is dedicated to the performing arts of Asia, focusing upon both traditional and modern theatrical forms. It aims to facilitate the exchange of knowledge throughout the international theatrical community for the mutual benefit of all interested scholars and artists.

AZALEA: JOURNAL OF KOREAN LITERATURE & CULTURE promotes Korean literature among English-language readers. The first volume includes works of several contemporary Korean writers and poets, as well as essays and book reviews by Korean studies professors in the United States.

BUDDHIST-CHRISTIAN STUDIES is a scholarly journal devoted to Buddhism and Christianity and their historical and contemporary interrelationships, presents thoughtful articles, conference reports, and book reviews. The journal also includes sections on comparative methodology and historical comparisons.

CHINA REVIEW INTERNATIONAL: A JOURNAL OF REVIEWS OF SCHOLARLY LITERATURE IN CHINESE STUDIES presents timely, English-language reviews of recently published China-related books and monographs from China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, Europe, the U.S., and elsewhere.

CROSS-CURRENTS: EAST ASIAN HISTORY AND CULTURE REVIEW offers its readers up-to-date research findings, emerging trends, and cutting-edge perspectives on material from the sixteenth century to the present day that have significant implications for current models of understanding East Asian history and culture.

The JOURNAL OF DAOIST STUDIES is dedicated to the scholarly exploration of Daoism in all its different dimensions. Each issue has three main parts: Academic Articles; Forum on Contemporary Practice on issues of current activities in China and other parts of the world; and News of the Field.

The JOURNAL OF KOREAN RELIGIONS is the only English-language academic journal dedicated to the study of Korean religions. It aims to stimulate interest in and research on Korean religions across a range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences.

KOREAN STUDIES: A MULTI-DISCIPLINARY JOURNAL ON KOREA AND KOREANS ABROAD seeks to further scholarship on Korea by providing a forum for discourse on timely subjects, and addresses a variety of scholarly topics through interdisciplinary and multicultural articles, and book reviews in the humanities and social sciences.

PHILOSOPHY EAST AND WEST: A QUARTERLY OF COMPARATIVE PHILOSOPHY promotes academic literacy on non-Western traditions of philosophy. Philosophy defined in its relationship to cultural traditions broadly integrates the professional discipline with literature, science, and social practices.

The REVIEW OF JAPANESE CULTURE AND SOCIETY is devoted to the scholarly examination of Japanese art, literature, and society. Published annually in English, it provides a venue for the encounter of diverse perspectives on various aspects of Japanese culture and society.

U.S.-JAPAN WOMEN'S JOURNAL is an interdisciplinary publication which promotes scholarly exchange on social, cultural, political, and economic issues pertaining to gender and Japan. The journal encourages comparative study among Japan, the United States, and other countries.

Meet us at booth #427 to find out about IIAS fellowships, publishing opportunities, ICAS and other global events.

Connecting knowledge and people

IIAS is a humanities and social sciences institute and knowledge exchange platform with programmes that engage Asian and other international partners. It acts as a global mediator by bringing together academic and non-academic institutes, including cultural, social and policy organisations.

Call for Papers
Deadline: 10 Oct 2018

IIAS is proud to host the ICAS Secretariat. The International Convention of Asia Scholars engages participants from all continents in dialogues on Asia that transcend boundaries between academic disciplines and geographic regions.

Leiden University will be the main host of the eleventh meeting of the International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS), to be held in Leiden, the Netherlands, from 16-19 July 2019.

ICAS 11 will draw on the historically rich Asian and global connections of the city, along with its research institutes and museums.

GAZETTEERS and CULTURAL RELICS from CHINA

An Online Collection of Historic Difangzhi 地方志

East View presents the China Comprehensive Gazetteers online database, the single largest and most authoritative assembly of unique primary sources on Chinese history.

The original materials are sourced from the collection at the National Library of China, whose holdings are extensive and often unique.

This vast collection of difangzhi spans eight centuries 1229-1949, with more than 6,500 titles, presented with superior image quality and some full text. The content is searchable with additional metadata.

Chinese Cultural Relics

Now in its fourth year, Chinese Cultural Relics is the official English translation of the award-winning Chinese archaeology journal Wenwu.

Access detailed reports on the latest developments in Chinese archaeology, all expertly translated into English. Available in print and online, each issue of Chinese Cultural Relics contains select articles from recent issues of Wenwu, including all original photographs, drawings, maps and diagrams.

THE TURN AGAINST THE MODERN (by Ronald P. Loftus) The Critical Essays of Taoka Reiun (1870-1912)

A biography of the late Meiji social and cultural critic, Taoka Reiun (1870-1912), who was known for his erce attack on modernity. A careful reader of philosophy, religion, and literature, Reiun embraced a vision of history, society, and the future that marks him as an original and creative thinker whose understanding of what it means to be modern and human remains alive and vital today.

TEACHING JAPANESE POPULAR CULTURE (by Deborah Shamoon & Chris McMorran). This edited volume is divided into three sections: (1) the first discusses issues related to critical pedagogy and curriculum design—the big picture on popular culture in the classroom and an overview of recent scholarship; (2) the second section covers teaching about popular culture in media studies—literature/film studies and cultural studies courses; (3) the third section covers teaching with popular culture in history courses, Japanese language courses, and K-12 education. The essays discuss teaching in Australia, Canada, Germany, Japan, Singapore, and the United States, in English-language, German-language, and Japanese-language institutions. This volume brings together instructors at all levels, from a variety of disciplines and countries, to present a multitude of approaches to teaching Japanese popular culture.

EAST MEETS EAST: Chinese Discover the Modern World in Japan, 1854-1898. A Window on the Intellectual and Social Transformation of Modern China (by Douglas R. Reynolds with Carol T. Reynolds). East Meets East is particularly useful for its insights on the understudied decades between China's mid-nineteenth century rebellions and first Sino-Japanese War (1894-95). For depth, breadth, and fresh insights, East Meets East is a must read.

CHANGING LIVES: The 'Postwar' in Japanese Women's Autobiographies and Memoirs (by Ronald P. Loftus). The voices found in Changing Lives touch upon key moments in a dynamic and tumultuous era in Japanese history including the emperor's radio address at the end of World War II, the first Japanese election in which women could vote, the Ampo Movement, and the Women's Lib Movement of the 1970s where we encounter two of the women speaking directly about the process of developing their "feminine consciousness."

MEMORY, VIOLENCE, QUEUES: Lu Xun Interprets China (by Eva Shan Chou) takes a new look at the writer who more than anyone sounded the clarion call for the emergence of modern Chinese literature. It identifies key moments in Lu Xun's creative development and places them in the context of the turbulent era in which China became a republic.

SCATTERED GODDESSES: Travels with the Yoginis (by Padma Kaimal) is a book about the lost home, the new homes, and the journeys in between of nineteen 10th-century sculptures that now reside in museums across North America, Western Europe, and South India. In the process of export and purchase, Kaimal finds that collecting and scattering were the same activity experienced from different points of view.

SOUTH ASIAN TEXTS IN HISTORY: Critical Engagements with Sheldon Pollock (edited by Yigal Bronner, Whitney Cox, and Lawrence McCrea) presents, for the first time, an overview of the groundbreaking contributions of Sheldon Pollock to South Asia scholarship over the past three decades, while offering a set of critiques of key elements of his theories.

COLLECTING ASIA: East Asian Libraries in North America, 1868-2008 (edited by Peter X. Zhou) is written by leading East Asia specialists, librarians, and scholars and offers a fascinating look at the founding and development of twenty-five major East Asian libraries in North America. Richly illustrated and engagingly written, Collecting Asia is a vital book for scholars, librarians, students, and anyone with an interest in Asia and the history behind these important collections.

BEATING DEVILS AND BURNING THEIR BOOKS: Views of China, Japan, and the West (edited by Anthony E. Clark) follows works such as Edward Said's Orientalism and John Dower's War Without Mercy and seeks to continue dialogue regarding how China, Japan, and the West have historically viewed and represented each other, and, more importantly, it considers how we might strive to discard pejorative images that still persist.

PRESCRIBING COLONIZATION: The Role of Medical Practices and Policies in Japan-Ruled Taiwan, 1895-1945 (by Michael Shiyung Liu) provides a carefully researched analysis of the establishment of medical practices in Taiwan during Japanese colonial rule.

TO DIE AND NOT DECAY: Autobiography and the Pursuit of Immortality in Early China (by Matthew Wells) is the only book-length study to date on early Chinese autobiographical writing and the cultural issues surrounding this particular genre.

TOOLS OF CULTURE: Japan's Cultural, Intellectual, Medical, and Technological Contacts in East Asia, 1000s-1500s (edited by Andrew Edmund Goble, Kenneth R. Robinson, and Haruko Wakabayashi) addresses aspects of Japanese human and material interactions in East Asia from the late eleventh through the late sixteenth centuries.

❑ Tales from Tang Dynasty China

Selections from the Taiping Guangji

Edited, with an Introduction, by Alexei K. Ditter, Jessey J. C. Choo, and Sarah M. Allen
Paper: $16.00 • eBook: $13.50 • Exam: $3.00

“This new collection of Tang dynasty tales translated from the Taiping Guangji is an outstanding new resource for students of China. The stories are well-chosen to represent the fascinating breadth of medieval Chinese culture—tales of romance, politics, revenge, and interactions with the supernatural bring to life the richness of medieval religion and society. . . . Lively and accessible to the non-specialist reader, this volume will make a terrific addition to any course on China.” —Anna M. Shields, Princeton University

❑ The East India Company, 1600–1858: A Short History with Documents

Ian Barrow • Series: Passages: Key Moments in History

Paper: $18.00 • eBook: $15.50 • Exam: $3.00

“Ian Barrow has written a concise yet engaging, rich, and detailed history of the East India Company—its rise to power, evolution, and eventual demise. This book will be read with great interest by students as well as those general readers seeking a better knowledge of the world’s first multi-national corporation and its important influence in the creation of the modern South Asian world.” —Michael Dodson, Indiana University Bloomington

❑ The Nyāya-sūtra: Selections with Early Commentaries

Translated, with Introduction and Explanatory Notes, by Matthew Dasti and Stephen Phillips
Paper: $19.00 • eBook: $16.50 • Exam: $4.00

“Matthew Dasti and Stephen Phillips have done the philosophical world, and teachers and students of philosophy, a great favor in presenting this superb translation of major portions of the Nyāya-sūtra with selections from its most important commentaries. This text is central to the history of Indian epistemology and metaphysics, and was influential well beyond the world of Nyāya, and its most important philosophical passages are presented here. . . . This will be a valuable resource to scholars as well as to teachers and students.” —Jay Garfield, Smith College

JAPAN-U.S. FRIENDSHIP COMMISSION PRIZES FOR THE TRANSLATION OF JAPANESE LITERATURE & LINDSLEY AND MASAO MIYOSHI TRANSLATION PRIZES AND GRANTS

The Donald Keene Center of Japanese Culture at Columbia University annually awards $6000 in Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission Prizes for the Translation of Japanese Literature. A prize is given for the best translation of a modern work or a classical work, or the prize is divided between equally distinguished translations. Translators must be citizens or permanent residents of the United States.

The Keene Center also occasionally awards Lindsley and Masao Miyoshi Translation Prizes and Grants of varying amounts. These include: prizes of up to $6000 given to outstanding translations by non-citizens or non-permanent-residents of the United States; prizes for translations of particular scholarly merit or significance; grants to promising translations-in-progress; subventions for forthcoming publication of especially deserving translations; and, in rare cases, lifetime achievement awards for translators with particularly distinguished careers.

The submission process for the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission Prizes and the Miyoshi Prizes and Grants is the same.

Eligibility: Translations must be of book-length Japanese works: novels, collections of short stories, manga, essays, memoirs, drama, or poetry. Submissions may be unpublished manuscripts, works in press, or books published during the two years prior to the prize year (for the current prize, this means publication dates in 2016 and afterward). Prior recipients are eligible to submit new translations.

Inquiries about the prizes should be directed to: donald-keene-center@columbia.edu.

Deadline: Submissions for the 2018-2019 prizes must be received by 1 June 2018

DIGITAL RESOURCES from TAIWAN

Taiwan Journals Search 臺灣人社百刊

Delivering a scholarly Taiwanese perspective on developments in Taiwan, mainland China, and throughout Asia, Taiwan Journals Search is the only full-text searchable database of its kind, with content from the most authoritative humanities and social science journals available, from 1967 to present. With simple, clear interfaces in English, simplified and traditional Chinese, the database is updated regularly with new journals.

Sinica Sinoweb

The most in-depth, complete, and accurate research tool of Taiwan humanities, comprising 14 journals covering modern and oral history, philology, drama and art, Chinese literature and philosophy, and more. Some journals include issues published as early as 1928. Research the latest archaeological findings from the prestigious Bulletin of the History and Philology Institute or access the Contemporary Neo-Confucianism Database, Legein Monthly, containing the most complete writings of the great master Mou Zong-San (牟宗三). Sinica Sinoweb delivers these and more from the deep archives of Academia Sinica in Taipei.

Zhuanji Wenxue Digital Archive 傳記文學

The essential biographical reference source for important figures in the Republic of China is the Zhuanji Wenxue (Biography Literature Magazine), now available online from the first issue in 1962 to present, in full-image and full-text. As an online database, the Zhuanji Wenxue Digital Archive is a treasure trove of historical materials on modern China. With a searchable archive of more than 20,000 articles, new content is added continuously: autobiographies, biographies, diaries, handwritten letters, oral histories, and more.

TANG CENTER FOR EARLY CHINA

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

The Tang Center for Early China at Columbia University was founded in 2015 through a generous endowment gift from Oscar Tang and Agnes Hsu-Tang. The Tang Center is dedicated to the advancement of the understanding of the richness and importance of early Chinese civilization as a part of a broader common human heritage. It is committed to doing so through both solid scholarship and broad public outreach. The Tang Center sponsors a variety of conferences, workshops as well as public lectures each year including the Columbia Early China Seminar. The Tang Center is especially interested in supporting research initiatives that aim to examine newly discovered paleographic and textual material as well as artifacts, and in promoting the role of archaeology as a path to understand the past.

Call for Manuscripts

Tang Center Series in Early China

Sponsored by the Tang Center and to be published by Columbia University Press, the “Tang Center Series in Early China” includes new studies that make major contributions to our understanding of early Chinese civilization or that which break new theoretical or methodological grounds in Early China studies. The series is especially interested in publishing works that analyze newly discovered paleographic and manuscript materials as well as archaeological data. Disciplinary focuses of the series are history, archaeology, art history, anthropology, literature, philosophy, and the history of sciences and technology. The series spans from the Neolithic period to the end of the Han Dynasty (AD 220), or to the end of the Tang Dynasty (AD 907) for titles in archaeology. All submissions are subject to peer reviews and editorial evaluation. For more information, please see <http://tangcenter-columbia.org/publications/>. Interested authors should submit a book proposal (maximum 25 manuscript pages), accompanied by CV, to: info@tangcenter-columbia.org, or by mail to: 509 Kent Hall, 1140 Amsterdam Avenue, MC 3907, Columbia University, New York, NY 10027.

Call for Applications

The Tang Post-Doctoral Research Award in Early China Studies

The Tang Center for Early China offers one Post-Doctoral Research Award in the amount of $15,000 each year in recognition of outstanding research projects in early Chinese civilization or in archaeology.

The Tang Visiting Scholar's Fellowship

The Tang Center offers Visiting Scholar's Fellowship each year to one scholar for an in-residence research period of 10 months at Columbia University, or to two scholars for a period of 5 months each, depending on the need of the proposed projects. The applicant must be non-US based.

Workshop and Conference Grants

The Tang Center offers grants in the amount of $13,000 each to up to two workshop and/or conference proposals each academic year, depending on the scale. Each workshop or conference should have an identified central problem or theme on which the papers will focus. Alternatively, the workshop/conference can be centered on a newly discovered corpus of materials or manuscripts, or on an important archaeological site, or a region.

Application deadline, November 30, for all programs.

For more information, please visit our website www.tangcenter-columbia.org.

Questions directed to: info@tangcenter-columbia.org; or by phone: 212-854-5546.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY PRESS

Columbia University Press is proud to announce

How to Read Chinese Literature

The How to Read Chinese Literature series is an innovative collection of literary anthologies and language texts covering all major literary genres. The series will consist of five guided literary anthologies, one book on literary culture, and four language texts. Usable as both stand-alone volumes and a coherent set, the ten books break down barriers between literary and language studies. By teaching how to appreciate Chinese literature in its original form, the series seeks to transform learning and teaching of Chinese literature, language, and culture in the English-speaking world.

Zong-qi Cai, general editor
Yuan Xingpei, editorial board director

Please join us for the series
launch at the CUP booth
(#234) Friday, March 23rd,
at 12:30pm

"This volume joins others in editor Zong-qi Cai's How to Read Chinese literature series as an important pedagogic and scholarly resource. Leading authorities set seminal poetic texts, across genres and periods, in their larger historical literary and intellectual contexts. A great contribution to a broader understanding of Chinese poetry."
-Ronald Egan, Stanford University
