The AAS NEAC and CIAC Grants Application Process has changed

Updated: August 2021

There have been some changes to the AAS grant application process, including the ability to save an in-progress application and come back to it at a later time. It also makes requesting a letter of recommendation much easier.

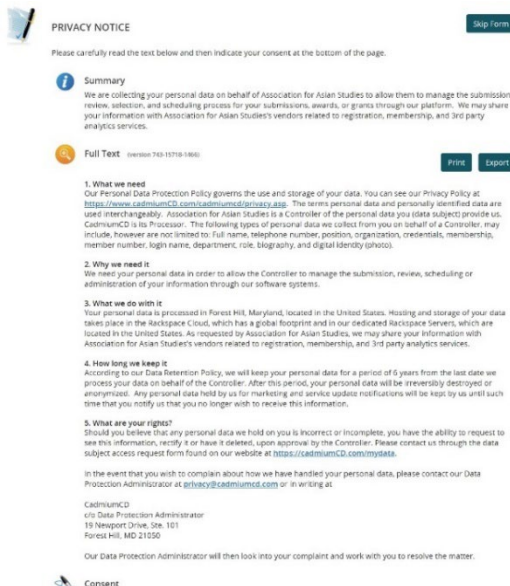

Please access the application submission portal via the button on the NEAC Japan or Korea pages:

NEAC Japan NEAC Korea

This is the new landing page for the submission website. New users click “Join Now” and returning users login under “Already a User?”

Please note this is different from your AAS member account, and you will need to create a new account if you have not accessed the grant application portal yet.

You will see the privacy notice page, please read through it and proceed to the next page after signing.

The first page will ask for your grant project title, if you are applying for a Japan or Korea NEAC grant and if you are a current graduate student or not.

If you are a current graduate student, you will have additional tasks related to your letter of recommendation, non-graduate students will not have those tasks.

Save Submission

Depending on if you are a graduate student or a non-graduate student, your task list will look different.

Graduate students will have more tasks because they need to add a recommender and the recommender will need to upload a letter of recommendation for a total of 7 tasks.

Non-graduate students will have a total of 5 tasks.

You may work through the tasks at your leisure and leave the application and come back at a later time to finish your application.

It is highly encouraged that graduate students work on the first two tasks as soon as possible in order to give their recommender time to complete the letter of recommendation.

Graduate students will not be able to submit their application until the letter of recommendation is completed by the recommender.
